The boys were about to pay their fines when a kind-hearted nollceman informed them that by staying in the "pen" until 4 o'clock they wouldn't have to out with the money, so they agreed to go downstairs.

"Can we have our money and our cards, Judge?" asked Grieff.

"You can have your thirty pennies." said Magistrate Kernochan; "but not your cards. You might continue that game, and I'm not going to have that pen' demoralized."

ACCUSED OF EXTORTION BY IMPERSONATING POLICE.

Two Men Held in $1,000 Bail for Examination of Complaint of Women. Charged with impersonating police-men and "shaking down" the unfor-tunate women who frequent the Tenderloin streets, two young men who describe themselves as James Smith, of No. 624 Tenth avennue, and John J. Wall, of No. 520 West Forty-ninth street, weer held to-day by Magistrate Moss, in the West Side Court, in $100 bail each to await further examination. The prisoners were arrested early to-day by Policeman Detter, of the West Thirty-seventh street station, upon the complaint of two women who charged them with extortion. The police declare that the accused men police declare that the accused men had been representing themselves as detectives for several weeks and had sourced various sums of money from girls whom they would first inveigle into conversation and then threaten Justice Guy Says Edward Cavanagh Did Not Participate in the Objectionable Method.

Edward Cavanagh, one of the "toss the coin" jurors, was absolved to-day by Justice Guy, in the Supreme Court The $50 fine imposed on Cavanagh and the eleven other jurymen who decided the case of Dixon against the New York City Railway Company by the flip of a coin, was not admitted.

"It is only just to state," said Justice Guy, when an application was made to remit the fine imposed on Cavanagh, "that the juror Cavanagh did not participate in the objectionable smethods adopted by the jury in determining their verdict, but, on the contrary, protested, and only acquiesced because it was in accord with his conclusions." the case of Dixon against the New
